Council reduction approved by narrow 3-2 margin

A bylaw reducing the size of Elk Point Town Council from seven members to five passed by a 3-2 margin at a special meeting of Council last Wednesday.

Mayor Ed Buck, who had proposed the change earlier when a resignation left Council shorthanded, brought the matter back on the table recently when no nominations were received to fill vacancies left by the resignation of two more councillors. He noted that there is "a lot of downsizing in municipal governments," and that the senior government is encouraging municipalities to have smaller councils, in answer to a question from Councillor Ron Smith as to why the matter had been brought forward again when it had been defeated previously.

Buck feels that with fewer council positions to fill, there may be sufficient nominations to hold an election and give the voters a choice regarding who will represent them. This sentiment echoed a letter to Council from Sid Holthe, the only ratepayer to offer input on the matter. Holthe also felt the move would be more cost effective in a time of restraint, and suggested there must be a suitable alternative to councillor attendance at agency and committee meetings other than those of Council committees, in order to reduce the councillors' workloads.

Increase in number of committee meetings was a concern for Councillor Mae Hendrickson. Council representatives sit on many committees and agencies besides those directly connected with Council, but Town Manager Myron Goyan queried how much input these representatives actually have. Mayor Buck pointed out that executive committee meetings could be dispensed with by a smaller council.

Buck called for a recorded vote on both third and fourth readings, with Mayor Buck and Councillors Bill Schuhmacher and Walter Lesyk voting in favor of the bylaw, and Councillors Ron Smith and Mae Hendrickson against the bylaw, in both cases.

Metelytsia dances into spring

Elk Point Ukrainian Dance Club swept away memories of a snowy Saturday with a breath of spring as the Metelytsia Dance Ensemble presented their annual concert at F. G. Miller High School. The evening featured several new and exciting dances, as well as the well-loved traditional numbers. Paul Hyshka, who along with Tanya Senziak instructs the group, served as master of ceremonies.

Following O Canada, led by Sue Bartholomew, dancers in costumes of four regions welcomed their audience with the "Pryvitania," ending with a tiny pair presenting the traditional bread and salt.

Senior dancers Charissa Brown, Kenna Hillebrand, Michelle Hillebrand and Chantelle Maas presented a lively and energetic "Bukovynski Tanets," followed by juniors Cassandra Cochrane, Lacey Desaulniers, Chelsea Schnurer, Nicholas, Adam and Michelle Zapesocki with the "Vesilna Polka."

Two young "Chumkay from Elk Point" were next on stage, Travis Lindquist and Addison Vandermeys as the salt and grain traders who performed the legendary whip dance.

Beginners Renee Adams, Ryley Capjack, Hailey Casper, Laryssa Cochrane, Megan Derewynka, Caitlan Duffee, Ariel and Dylan

Kwasnycia, Brett and Kelsey Lindquist and Sarah Zarowny showed off their love for dance in the "Divchatay Liubov," followed by the first solo of the evening, a vibrant "Metelky" by junior Sage Lowery.

The grace and beauty of the "Ribbon Dance" was exhibited by intermediate group members Jasmine Brown, Eva Gusnowski, Kirsty Lindquist, Kristy and Maureen Myshaniuk, Danielle Schnurer, Brandi Yarmuch and Amanda Zapesocki as they wound their way through the complicated patterns. Michelle Zapesocki, with the "Verselay Chas" and Addison Vandermeys with "Fly Kozak" were followed by "Time to Dance" by tiny dancers Ariel and Dylan Kwasnycia and Sarah Zarowny.

The intermediate girls were back on stage in velvet vests, striped skirts and kerchief head-dresses for the "Volynska Zabava," while the senior girls returned as doll-like figurines, their ruffled petticoats swirling in the "Zakarpatski Tanets" which ended the first half of the concert.

Addison Vandermeys and Travis Lindquist opened the second half of the concert as they magically awoke the intermediate girls in the enchanting "Zakarpatski Melodyi." A complete change of pace came with the juniors as they performed a vigorous "Hutzulski Tanets," a

Elk Point's Most Wanted marks its first success

By Sgt. Peter Sherstan
Elk Point RCMP

Today a convicted sex offender is behind bars as a direct result of the "Wanted" notice published in the April 21 edition of the Elk Point Review. Clayton Joseph Trotter, a 47 year old resident of Fishing Lake, was originally convicted of Sexual Assault in June of 1997. At that time he was sentenced to a fine of $5000 and placed on probation for 18 months. The Crown Prosecutor's Office appealed the sentence and the Alberta Court of Appeal varied the sentence of two years less a day. Trotter failed to appear at the Edmonton Remand Centre to begin serving his sentence as required. Subsequently, an arrest warrant was issued.

Several attempts were made to locate and arrest Trotter at various locations in Alberta by the RCMP and the Edmonton City Police. However, none of these attempts were successful. On April 22, the RCMP Elk Point Detachment received information from an individual who recognized Trotter from the photograph published in the newspaper. After a brief investigation, members of the Edmonton City Police arrested Trotter at a west end apartment located in the city. This case is a positive example of the results that can be achieved when the police work together with their community partners.

Optimistically creative Spring

BY Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Hasn't this spring weather been nice this year! In fact, hockey season barely ended and the kids are asking if they can go golfing. And... on the ball diamonds, people are even organizing themselves and playing ball. Ball registration hasn't even officially happened yet. Then in the gardens, people are seen preparing their land, but a little cautious as to planting yet.

Anyway, it is nice seeing things happen creatively. It really has been a creative spring. After all, it is different to that we are used to in past years.

To be creative, one has to be optimistic. You have heard of the story of how the pessimist will see a glass filled to the half-way mark with water as being half empty, and the optimist as being half full. Well, there are benefits for being optimistic. I like the poem that talks about the optimistic route.

Two frogs fell into a deep cream bowl,

One was an optimistic soul;
But the other took the gloomy view,

"I shall drown," he cried,
"and so will you."

So with a last despairing cry,

He closed his eyes and said,
"Good-bye."

But the other frog, with a merry grin,

Said, "I can't get out, but I won't give in!

I'll swim around til my strength is spent.

For having tried, I'll die content."

Bravely he swam until it would seem

His struggles began to churn the cream.

On top of the butter at last he stopped

And out of the bowl he happily hopped.

What is the moral? It's easily found.

If you can't get out — keep swimming around!

Now isn't that a cute poem, full of several messages. We can liken it to ourselves as we respond to all our nice spring weather. Just think of all the things we can do that at this time in previous years we couldn't do. What have you done different this year?

When I first started talking about our optimistically creative spring, I tried to explain that since our spring has been different, we have had to do things differently in our response to spring this year. In fact, you remember I talked about the optimist and the pessimist in their view of a glass filled to the half way mark, while an optimistically creative person will see it as a vase for a rosebud, and the optimistic pragmatist as a means of quenching thirst. ... Therefore, as it was said by James Reston, "Take things with gratitude, rather than for granted." ... Thank you, "Mother Nature," "El Nino," "Global Warming" and our Creator for giving us such nice spring weather. Let us all continue to enjoy!

Let's Pitch-In and Clean Up
our Town!

This month in 1988

As another month slides into the history books, let's take a look back at what was happening a decade ago, in April, 1988...

April 6: A break came in the month long teachers' strike, but the 5000 students in four counties of northeast Alberta were still away from their classrooms awaiting school boards' approval of the teachers' proposal. Stoney Lake Stampede Association announced their first-ever rodeo queen contest, to be held in conjunction with their annual rodeo. Kim Kurek and Elena Drobot both placed second at District 4-H Public Speaking. Tanya Kenyon and Matt Veer won the Saddle Slickers Public Speaking.

April 13: Months of planning and preparation were complete, and the Elk Point Agricultural Society was excited about their first ever trade fair, with almost 100 booths spoken for. Hillside Texaco celebrated their grand opening. Town Council prepared for spring with repairs to their street sweeper and the designation of Spring Clean-Up Week, May 1 to 7. Rinks skipped by Steve Penz won both the Men's A and Mixed A divisions in league curling, with Wayne Smith winning Men's B, Mike Oryschuk the Mixed B and Stella Lorensen the Ladies league. Elk Point, with one racewalker per 650 people, called itself the Racewalking Capital of Canada as Holly Burton instructed a racewalking workshop.

April 20: The Trade Fair was a phenomenal success, with over 4000 people attending the three-day event. Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department had an extremely busy weekend, fighting four grass and brush fires. Over 40 ratepayers attended the Town's Annual Meeting, with numerous questions put to Mayor Byron Mann and his council. A display of watercolors by Donna Dahmer and a visit by Alberta author Grant MacEwan were highlights at the library. Mike Palinka was returned to the presidency of the Pioneer Circle.

April 27: Tommy Rae, as a bearded, leaping leprechaun, showed a distinct flair for standup comedy, song and dance as he and a number of other zany performers from the Lakeland Theatre Company entertained at the FCSS Volunteer Night. A petition presented at the Town annual meeting asking for a return to the recreational master plan for ball diamond alignment was accepted by Council after considerable discussion. Recreation and Cultural department coordinator Gail Kozicky urged the Elk Point Chamber members to get out and take part in the Great Participaction Challenge. Honored Royal Lady Jeannine Boratynec and Exalted Ruler Dave Yake were installed as heads of the OORP and BPO Elks lodges. CANSAVE director for India, Dr. Zulie Nakahooda visited the Elk Point Canadian Save the Children group.

The Pelechs in Paris — Part II

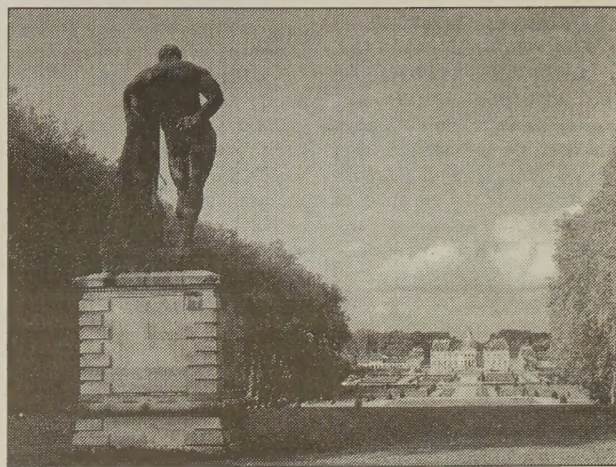

By Sherry Pelech
World Traveler

Paris is also full of tall, skinny women in long, narrow, tight skirts and big, clunky shoes. The clunky shoes are all right but if this fashion ever hits Canada, some of us are not of the skinny skirt persuasion.

We traveled by Metro to Place de la Concorde and walked. What can I say about Paris? All that has ever been written and more! We walked around the outside of the Louvre, saw the Egyptian Obelisk, the prison where Marie Antoinette was kept, the Palais de Justice, the Palais Royale and Notre Dame Cathedral. Awesome! Huge arched ceilings and unbelievable stained glass windows. Marshel had the urge to take a few gallons of white paint and cheer it up a bit as the interior is very dark brown and gloomy. We listened to the strains of ancient music as Mass was being held. Suddenly we heard a nasally American voice saying, "Listen, dear. That's the same music the Hunchback listened to!" Obviously, mother and child had been well 'Disneyized' as the original Quasimodo in Victor Hugo's classic was deaf.

We walked along the Seine and saw kiosks along the bank selling everything you can imagine — magazines, old books, new books, paintings, prints, comics, posters, old post cards, etc. We walked across one of the bridges to 'Ile de Cite.' Then we walked through a park and stopped to watch old men play 'Boule' — sort of like lawn bowling.

When we returned to the apartment, Alexa had supper ready — delicious — tiny potatoes and pork loin. After supper, Alexa, Marshel and I took 'Mishka' — a lovely, big dog with a wicked sense of humor — for a walk. We went to the Trocadero and stood gazing at the Eiffel Tower lit up in all its nighttime glory. Went back to the apartment and to bed. Slept soundly until 4:30!

Part III

A short but solid sleep. Fresh croissants for breakfast. (You gotta love this country). Then Alexa and Francois took us to a chateau about 40 kilometers out of Paris, called Vaux-Le-Vicomte. This is a sumptuous palace built by Nicholas Fouquet, Minister of Finance for Louis XIV, and Regent of France until Louis came of age. Fouquet had an acquisitive nature and squandered away a massive fortune — in fact, in the local dialect, the word for squirrel or 'ecureuil' was 'Fouquet.' Fouquet truly believed his family motto — "Quo non ascendit" — "The sky's the limit." It took 18,000 workmen, including 250 tapestry weavers and the painter Charles Le Brun, and landscape architect Andre Le Notre, five years to create the magnificent chateau and grounds. When it was completed in 1661, Fouquet threw a

Sky Watch

By Lois Ramer
Astronomy Buff

What inspires one to write about the Cosmos? These are my most recent experiences that direct my thoughts and pen for Sky Watch.

First of all, the word cosmos, pertaining to the universe, means an 'ordered whole.' It also means an 'ordered system of ideas.' So when looking into the heavens and studying its contents, it is quite exhilarating to consider the order. It is certainly difficult to imagine how the system of ideas pertaining to the creation of the sun, moon, stars, galaxies, etc. has evolved to what we, in our 'spare' time, see and perceive. It certainly is a type of evolution that God in His enormous wisdom has done and is doing. Do we remember that what we look at this day is many light years away? As I wrote in August of 1996, the Andromeda galaxy that is visible with the naked eye, is two million light years away. This inspires me to write.

Another recent inspirational moment for this buff occurred

while my husband and I were travelling in southwest B.C. In our new semi retirement, travel work pulling recreational vehicles across North America, the night skies are our faithful companion.

It was my turn in the sleeping berth and upon reclining, there before my weary eyes, in perfect parallel with my body, was the great Northern Cross (Cygnus)... full and foreboding. For me, the sight was a direct and perfect 'word' from God that He was with us as we were edging our way around those B.C. mountain curves and tunnels. (I really dislike that curved tunnel in the Crownsnest.)

Right now the Cross can be seen in the North, very close to the horizon at approximately 10:00 p.m. ...in the horizontal position. It can inspire you in your time of need.

Again, a moment of exhilaration occurs when our 'ages old' moon friend plopped himself right smack on the tip of one of the Rocky Mountain peaks. Being nearly full moon (April 10) it presented itself in a most glorious display as it always and continually does. Next... I was recently ushered into my neighbor's newly redecorated child's bedroom. There, in brilliant array around the upper edge of the walls, were dozens of dancing crescent moons and stars. Those little fellas in that home sure have a head start in their astronomy study thanks to their mommy and daddy, and the creative wallpaper designer.

All kinds of sights inspire me, eh? One of most recent readings in the Bible showed me something very interesting. It is found in Acts 28:11. The apostle Paul was sailing in a ship whose sign was Pollux and Castor. (Is this turning into a Bible study?) Pollux and Castor are the two bright stars, side by side, at the upper end of the constellation Gemini. Must leave you now to pull that fifth wheel to western B.C. God bless!

F. G. Miller bands salute spring in music

F. G. Miller High School's music students presented a tuneful salute to spring last Wednesday, with a good crowd on hand for their annual spring concert.

The Grade 7 band started off the program with O Canada, followed by a selection from Beethoven's Ninth Symphony and a very springlike "Song of the Blooming Cherry Tree," which is of Japanese origin.

Four Grade 9 students, Carlen Mutch, Tanya Pankiw and Joanne deMoissac with saxophones and Amanda Leaf on trombone, offered a sweet treat, the 60s rock song, "Sugar Sugar."

The Grade 8 band showed great versatility, with a booming "We Will Rock You," followed by the mellow show tune, "Moon River" and ending up with the disco beat of "Macho Man."

An up-and-coming rock band which recently performed at the Talent Search, Loser Makes Good, showed their talent with very credible performances of two Nirvana songs. The band consists of Terry Parenteau, Dale Youngchief and Dallas Flamond, with Brandon Parenteau doing the vocals.

The Grade 9 band has gone through several metamorphoses, and are now a jazz combo. They gave a smooth rendition of "With a Little Help From My Friends" and were joined by conductor Randall Kryz for "Another One Bites the Dust" and "My Boyfriend's Back."

The Senior High band was last on the program, starting off with two selections in which Mr. Kryz again joined the musicians and Grade 12 students took the podium. Ben Poulin conducted their rendition of "The Muppet Theme" and Carrie Baumgardner took up the baton for "Old Time Rock and Roll." Their third number was a medley of 1950s tunes, "Goodnight Sweetheart," "Silhouettes" and "Earth Angel," with Rocky Pilisko featured on alto saxophone in "Earth Angel." The seniors were called back for an encore, and complied with the energetic "William Tell Overture" to end a very enjoyable evening of entertainment.

MAESRO! -- Ben Poulin traded in his goalie stick for a baton to conduct the Senior High Band in their presentation of "The Muppet Theme," while Mr. Kryz took a seat in the band.

MAKING GOOD -- Rockers "Loser Makes Good" were a big hit with the teens in the crowd with their Nirvana songs.

Ukrainian Dance Concert

dance used by the residents of the Hutzul mountains to keep warm.

Flowers are an important part of spring, as shown by both the seniors, with their "Kritky" dance and three little ladies, Renee Adams, Hailey Casper and Caitlan Duffee with their "Spring Flowers" dance.

Intermediates Jasmine Brown, Eva Gusnowski, Kirsty Lindquist, Kristy and Maureen Myshaniuk donned nautical garb for a cross between a Ukrainian dance and a sailor's hornpipe in "Sailorettes."

Playful "Sestry (sisters)" Danielle and Chelsea Schnurer performed a delightful dance of imitation, followed by a Transcarpathian "Spring Time" solo by Amanda Zapesocki.

The morning's snow brought back memories of winter, and the Lindquist family, Kirsty, Travis, Brett and Kelsey built one last snowman in "Snihova Baba."

The Ukraine is famous for its beautiful maidens and its stalwart horsemen. The "Volianovchko," a dance based on a legend of a beautiful maiden from the Volyn region, was a solo for Brandi Yarmuch, while Travis Lindquist and Addison Vandermeys were the wild young kozaks who celebrated victory with swordplay and gymnastics in the "Kozatski Tanets."

The concert ended, as always, with the entire group onstage for a rousing "Hopak" and a traditional song of thanks for the appreciative audience.

ELK POINT'S METELYTSIA DANCE ENSEMBLE welcomes the public to their spring concert with the traditional presentation of bread and salt in the "Pryvitania."

Sports news

Where are all the baseball players?

By Doug Bassett
Sports Newshound

How many of you out there read the Hound Dog's sports column first thing Tuesday when you get the paper? Hold up your hand. Good, I do too! You know, they really created a monster with this new thing called the computer. It's like a bad habit that just won't go away, especially for a guy that didn't like English, grammar or spelling. I just wish we had had them when we went to school.

OK, bear with me, I know my material is getting a little thin. It's too bad that I wasn't! Somebody's going to have to call me with some sports news and bail me out, otherwise it will be a real test of my imagination. If I ever get paid for this job, I may start to worry about it, but for now, if you don't like it... give me something to write about.

Now, talk about thin. Last week you may have noticed that picture of the Coach of the Year and wondered why I was laughing so hard. Well, just before Vicki was going to take the shot, she commented that she could only take our picture from our necks up because she didn't have a wide angle lens. Dave didn't think that was funny! Also last week, I noticed a misprint, that one of our teams was having discipline problems. That should have been, I'm happy to report that NONE of the Elk Point teams were having this problem. OK, let's carry on.

This past week Elk Point Minor Ball held their registration on Tuesday night. The numbers are down from the last year about 50%. Registration right now is sitting at about 100. At one time during the peak, ball registration was 225. I remember how hectic that was trying to find enough diamonds, coaches and equipment, so maybe this isn't a bad thing. Hopefully we can get enough players to have a team at every level. Right now, boys are still needed at the Bantam level, players born in 1983-84, and Mosquitoes, boys born in 1987-88, and Peewee Girls, players born in 1985-86. The cost hasn't changed from last year, it's still cheap recreation. Anyone wishing to register can call Roger at 724-4001 or drop in at the Hilltop Motor Inn.

Minor ball registrations down 50 percent

What's the reason for the decline? Some players switched over to soccer, some went to golf, some are playing summer hockey, and some stayed home. The problem with baseball is, unless the team goes to provincials, the season is very short. You just get started and the season is over. Everything is crammed into two months, and the weather is very unpredictable. Remember last year when it wouldn't stop raining? Once you have a rainout, it's almost impossible to reschedule. Now don't get me wrong. I know we need the moisture, so let it rain at night!

On Sunday in Cold Lake the Lakeland Minor Ball League held its annual organizational meeting. Well, they try to be organized. With the size of the league, and the lack of communication it's pretty tough. Most towns are experiencing the same problems as Elk Point, with numbers dropping. The league plans to start playing the first week of May, with the wind up tournaments on the weekend of June 20 and 21. Some Peewee boys tournaments may go the weekend of June 13 and 14, because of the Peewee provincial round robins starting one week earlier this year. Also on the weekend of May 23 and 24 the league will be holding some mini round robins like it did last year. And for anyone interested in making some good money, there is always a need for umpires. The umpire clinics will be held in Bonnyville on May 2 and 3, the contact person is Terry at 825-7247, and in St. Paul on May 9 and 10, the contact person is Tim at 645-5332.

The Midget Girls hockey team, the Storm, would like to thank Lois Mutch for hosting their windup party on Saturday afternoon, and I would personally like to thank Lois for the great potato salad. I can't get enough of that stuff. Now I'm going to have to walk an extra mile all week!

OK, you guys, you can put your hand down now!

Tax Tips

Tax deadlines are approaching

By Lisa Martin
H & R Block, St. Paul

It may be hard to believe but the deadline for filing your 1997 income tax return is nearly upon us. If you have not already filed your income tax return, you should do it soon. For most people the deadline for filing your personal income tax return is April 30. If you have tax owing the penalties for not filing the return on time can add up to a substantial amount.

If you owe tax and the return is not filed by the due date Revenue Canada will charge you a late-filing penalty of 5% of your balance due plus 1% for each month that the return is late, to a maximum of 12 months. In addition to these penalties, interest on your unpaid balance will also be added to your tax liability.

There are situations where by some or all of the penalties may be reduced or eliminated. The fairness package gives Revenue Canada the discretion to waive or cancel penalties and interest on unpaid taxes, but only if your reason for not complying with the rules involves extraordinary circumstances. For example, the changes may be waived if the lateness was due to circumstances such as flood, fire, postal strike, illness, accident or serious emotional or mental stress caused by a traumatic event (such as a death in the family). Each case will be based on its own merits so the results are not always predictable.

If you do not owe tax or are in a refund position, none of the penalties will apply. Also, if you or your spouse is anticipating income or loss from a business that was operational during the year, your filing deadline is not until June 15, 1998. The income tax due however, must still be paid prior to April 30, 1998 to avoid interest charges.

What's news at the library?

Classics, best-sellers, sci-fi and non-fiction — all on tape!

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

The library has just received, on a 3-month loan, a collection of 25 books on tape. These items are now available for patrons to borrow. This block of books on tape is part of a collection financed by the regional library systems of Alberta and administered by the Peace Library System. Some of the classic titles in this block are: The Great Gatsby by F. Scott Fitzgerald, Pride and Prejudice by Jane Austen, A Room with a View by E. M. Forster and two vintage Jeeves stories by P. G. Wodehouse. Titles by best-selling writers include: Harvest by Belva Plain, While My Pretty One Sleeps by Mary Higgins Clark, Triple by Ken Follett, and Outlander by Diana Gabaldon. There are also a couple of science fiction titles, a mystery or two, and a few non-fiction titles. Check out the display case near the circulation desk to see what's available. While you're at it, check out our own collection of books on tape. Talking books can be borrowed for two weeks at a time.

There will be no Storytime this week as I will be attending the Alberta Library Conference in Jasper. Storytime returns Friday, May 8.

As I expected, I did receive a whole new batch of books, including some from our juvenile series. Some of the latest titles include:

Mary Anne takes a job in a mystery bookstore where all sorts of weird things begin to happen in Mary Anne and the Haunted Bookstore, a Baby-Sitters Club Mystery.

Jake discovers that there may be other people who know about the Yeerks and it seems to good to be true in The Warning, the latest in the Animorphs series.

Karen is moving to Chicago for six months and although she is excited, she is also afraid she may miss Stoneybrook too much in Karen's Big Move from Baby-Sitters Little Sister.

After Elizabeth gives Jessica a lecture on honesty, Jessica makes a wish on a falling star that Elizabeth would have to tell nothing but the truth. When the wish comes true, Elizabeth can't seem to stop revealing all about Jessica in Jessica's No Angel from Sweet Valley Twins.

In Knights Don't Teach Piano from the Adventures of the Bailey School Kids, the new piano teacher lives in a castle and wears a full suit of armor.

Could he really be a knight planning to take over Bailey City?

LIBRARY CALENDAR
Fridays, 10:30 a.m. — Storytime. Everyone welcome.

Pelechs in Paris

(Continued from Page 4) huge housewarming party. Louis XIV, who was 23 years old and king in his own right, took one look at Vaux-Le-Vicomte, compared it with the 12th century monstrosity he lived in, and had the Musketeer, D'Artagnon, (yes, he really did exist) arrest him. Fouquet, charged with embezzlement, died in prison. Louis, with an overdeveloped case of one-upmanship, scooped up all the workmen, including Le Brun and Le Notre, and had them build him a little place called Versailles.

The Chateau at Vaux-Le-Vicomte needs photos to do it justice. It is so huge, so gilded, so ornate it defies description. Every room has carved and gilded plaster moulding on the ceilings and walls, paintings by Le Brun, elaborate furniture that is intricately carved and windows that look out over vast, symmetrical gardens designed by Le Notre. We spent five hours at the chateau. Partly because we decided to take a little stroll across the sumptuous grounds. We could see a little statue, in the distance on a hill to the south, and thought we would walk over there and view the palace from the top of the hill. Andre Le Notre was a very find landscapist and deserves a good, sharp slap (I mean pat) on the back for the way he designed the gardens at Vaux-Le-Vicomte. You don't notice the lovely little hills and valleys and the long canal that are incorporated into the landscape. We didn't recognize the canal until we had walked at least a kilometer around one side of it. Then of course we had to walk a kilometer back again to get to the hill where the little statue was. By this time we were beginning to realize that the little statue was not so very little. When we climbed the hill and got right up to the statue (Hercules, by the way) we discovered that just the base of the statue was maybe 20 feet tall. And the statue itself was 20-30 feet high. Clever Le Notre!

We walked back around the canal the other direction and through the gardens. The huge old stable area had been converted into a carriage museum, gift shops and a restaurant called "L'ecureuil." We ate lunch there. We discovered that the movie, "L'Homme Dans Le Masque De Fer," "The Man In The Iron Mask," was recently filmed at Vaux-Le-Vicomte. I bet anything that Leonardo Di Caprio didn't have to climb all those hills in his funny little high-heeled shoes. He probably got to ride.
